FAQs

The system guarantees the quality of education at any school in the network. Choose ten prioritised options.

? How to apply online?

Applications can only be submitted online via the form available at preinscripcion.gencat.cat. When entering your details, you can also upload the necessary documents, which should be scanned or photographed in advance. Once your details have been entered, your application will be registered and you will receive a confirmation email. You can access your application and modify it throughout the entire application period. There will be no need to submit any documents at the schools.

? How can we find out about available school places and reserved places?

Each school can provide information about the places they will offer for the upcoming school year. Ask about the expected number of places for siblings in I3 (the first year of pre-school) and the provisional availability of reserved places for students with special needs. Schools shall specify in their initial offer the places reserved for students with special educational needs (students with special educational needs or students in a situation of socio-economic vulnerability).

This reservation of places allows for balanced planning within the education system and helps address the diverse educational needs in all classrooms across the city. Therefore, these reserved places are essential in building a network of equivalent, diverse and inclusive schools, ensuring equal educational opportunities for all students, regardless of their personal, social or economic situation. For this reason, even if the reserved places for students in situations of socio-economic vulnerability are not filled during the pre-enrolment process, they will remain reserved up to a maximum of five working days before the waiting lists are finalised.

Important: In order to maintain these conditions of educational equity, the initially planned reserved places may be reviewed based on the needs identified during pre-enrolment.

You can also find out about the general offer at the district information sessions and at edubcn.cat.

? How are proximity points awarded?

From your address, you can find out which public and state-subsidised schools in your educational zone offer the highest proximity points (priority criterion). You can also earn points based on your workplace. You can find the list of schools by entering your home or workplace address at edubcn.cat or at each school.

? How do the priority criteria and the points system work?

The criteria (both priority and supplementary) are used to sort and allocate school places. Priority criteria are used to sort pre-enrolment applications (proximity, siblings in the school, annual income). In the event of a tie, the points obtained for complementary criteria (large family, single-parent family, disability, parent working at the school, foster care, multiple births, etc.) are applied. If the tie persists, the order will be determined by a public draw.

? How do the priority criteria score?

Priority criteria

- Having siblings at the school adds 50 points. This is the criterion that gives the highest priority.
- Proximity points are:
 - 30 points if the school is on the list consulted at edubcn.cat/CentresProximitat from your usual home address;
 - 20 points if the school is on the list consulted from your workplace address;
 - 15 points if the school is in your district but outside your educational zone, and
 - 10 points if the school is outside your educational zone but in Barcelona.
- The annual income criterion adds 15 points.

Supplementary criteria (each condition adds additional points):

- Disability of the student, parent, guardian or siblings adds 15 points.
- Having a parent or guardian working at the school adds 10 points.
- Being from a large family adds 10 points.
- Being from a single-parent family adds 10 points.
- Being born from a multiple birth adds 10 points.
- Being a student in foster care adds 10 points.
- Being a victim of gender-based violence or terrorism adds 10 points.

? Why is it important to carefully consider your first choice?

In addition to listing your preferred school as your first choice, we recommend filling in the maximum number of options available (up to ten). The more schools you list, the higher your chances of securing a place at one of your preferred schools. The first choice is especially significant because:

1. Applications that list a school as the first choice are prioritised over applications listing the same school as a second choice, regardless of the score obtained under the allocation criteria.
2. The score will be calculated based on the points awarded for the first choice according to the criteria, and this score will apply to all other listed options.

? What happens after submitting the application?

Once all applications have been received, provisional results (allocation scores) will be published. Check the publication dates on edubcn.cat, as families will have a designated period to submit appeals regarding their score if they have any objections. This must be done before the tie-break draw takes place. Appeals should be directed to the school listed as the first choice and can be submitted online via the application portal.

? What documentation is required?

The following basic documents must be uploaded to the online pre-enrolment application after being digitally prepared (scanned or photographed):

- A scanned copy of the DNI or NIE if the application was not submitted using a digital identification system (e.g. electronic DNI or IdCAT Mòbil). For foreign nationals, a passport or a scanned identity document (for EU residents) is required.
- An electronic birth certificate or family book. (If the student already has an identifier, it is not necessary to submit the family book; the student identifier can be checked at educacio.gencat.cat).

For additional details, including a video tutorial explaining the specific documentation required to validate different priority criteria (e.g. foster care situations, foreign applicants, or cases where the registered address differs from the one on ID documents), visit preinscripcio.gencat.cat.

? Could we end up without a place? What is an assigned place?

Over 98% of families with children in the first year of pre-school (l3) secured a place at one of their chosen schools last year. It is important to complete all ten options. Families who do not secure a place at any of their chosen schools will receive an email inviting them to add to their pre-enrolment application (second round) by including schools with available vacancies. If this step is not completed within three days, the administration will assign a place based on the remaining availability at the end of the process.

? Do state-subsidised schools follow a different pre-enrolment process?

No, all schools, whether publicly run or state-subsidised, follow the same process and regulations.

? What should we do if we don't have access to digital tools or need support to complete the online pre-enrolment?

You will need to make an appointment with one of the school admissions support offices or the Consorci's Help Centre (see page 3 of this leaflet).

? What should we do if we believe our child may require special support or monitoring due to developmental delays or learning difficulties?

First, before completing the pre-enrolment process, you must fill in the form available at edubcn.cat/formulariNEE. This will allow us to contact you, assess your situation and provide guidance on your child's schooling.

Second, when completing the pre-enrolment application, you must tick the box that describes the different scenarios of special educational needs: "Students with developmental delays, disabilities, autism spectrum disorder, severe behavioural disorders, severe mental disorders, or serious and rare degenerative diseases." You should select this option whether your child has mild developmental delays or more complex needs related to learning difficulties, or issues in the areas of hearing, vision, cognition, communication or health.

By ticking this box, your child will be eligible for a reserved place, ensuring they receive personalised educational support. It is important to understand that there is a wide range of needs that require tailored educational approaches. Early identification allows for personalised learning, helping to enhance your child's abilities and develop skills for a fulfilling life. Schools have qualified professionals to address these situations, and the majority of students with this type of difficulty may have high-quality, inclusive educational development at any school in Barcelona.

In Barcelona, you have a network of pre-school, primary and secondary schools, professionals, programmes and educational resources close by, all working together with you to support your children's education. Discover them today!
